Dedication

Miss Milford

We, the Senior Class of 1952, respectfully dedicate this year book to Miss Jean Milford, who was our Junior Class advisor, and also directed both our Junior and Senior Class plays.

She has patiently guided those of us who took commercial courses, and helped us to fit ourselves for our future life.

In appreciation for her work on our behalf, we dedicate to her this annual.

Class Motto

CLASS PROPHECY

Good evening ladies and gentlemen. Every Tuesday and Thursday, at 6:30, Station WSHS brings you the Ohio Story.

Tonight we have for you the story of one of the largest cities in Ohio, in fact in the world, Seville. This city which grew from the small town it was in the early '50's, to what it is today, owes its success and increase in population to one small group of people, the class of 1952.

Come with me on our magic carpet, away to the city of our story, and we shall find out what the members of this class are now doing.

Flying low over the city, we see a mass of screaming teen-agers below us. Bringing our magic carpet to earth, we elbow our way through the crowd. There we see DALE HAGANS, that star of stage, screen, radio, and television, emerging from the Palace Theater, where his newest release, "Flaming Passion", is having its world premier. Critics have acclaimed him to be an even greater lover than Valentino. The director of his pictures is MISS JEAN MILFORD, who enjoyed directing class plays so much, that she went on to Hollywood. Throwing a kiss to the crowd, Dale steps into his chartruese convertible and drives away.

Rolling up our magic carpet and tucking it under our arms, we stroll on down the street. A tall man is approaching us. Much to our surprise he stops and speaks to us.

"Would you like to place a bet?" he whispers. Looking into his face, we make a discovery. It is JIM ROCK.

Jim tells us that most of his bets are placed at Bettyleland Park, owned and operated by MR. AND MRS. DETROW. One day, Mr. Detrow denounced teaching and bought a string of race horses. One of the best jockeys in the business is "dangerous" DUANE COGSWELL. Almost every horse he has ridden has been a winner. Finding out which horse he was riding today, we place our bet and go on our way.

Our eye is attracted by a huge marquee, upon which is written in flashing lights, "Shanghai Sally", the newest sensation in burlesque. We see a picture of SALLY KRATZER, also a member of this class. Curiosity rising, we go in.

Sally tells us that most of the girls in the company learned to dance at BEERY'S BALLROOM. It seems that Keith became a master of dance for the Junior Class Play and decided to open his own studio.

Leaving Sally, we journey on down the street.

Seeing another crowd we decide to investigate. It may be another member of this class.

Sure enough. There in the middle of the crowd we see BEVERY TRUEX on a soapbox. Inquiring among the crowd, we learn that she is a society leader. She is now campaigning to admit only the best people into Seville.

Leaving Beverly on her soapbox, we go into a modern building. It is a television studio. There, sitting in the lobby is BILL BRODBECK. Bill tells us that he had won The National Poetry Reading Contest, and now has a lullabye program. He is waiting for a studio to rehearse in.

Just then we see CAROL BLACK stepping out of an elevator. Calling her over, we learn that she now has an hour-long weekly comedy show. Laughing, Carol says that Milton Berle is beginning to get a little worried. Finding that we have so much to talk about, we invite Carol to have lunch with us. She accepts and we step outside and hail a taxi. Much to our dismay, the driver is MR. CHARLES COMKO. He tells us, that after his wife saw the good-looking basketball team, she decided that she would like to coach, herself, and he had to get another job.

When he suggests AUNT MARGARET'S MANSION HOUSE, we O. K. his choice. By the time we reach the restaurant, we decide that he should go back to coaching.

Stepping out of the taxi, we are practically knocked over by a small army. Righting ourselves, we find it is GWEN MARSHALL and company. It seems that she was well on her way to being a career woman, when along came a dashing youngmusician and swept her off her feet. She tells us that as the years went on, she found she couldn't find a nursery school that was willing to take her quadruplets. This didn't stop her. Gwen started a school of her own. While the children take their naps, she continues her art work.

The children are by this time pulling Gwen up the sidewalk. Shouting goodbye to her, we go into the restaurant.

We seat ourselves at a table, and after what seems hours, we are approached by a waitress that we recognize as MISS DELORES NEFF.

When we ask her why she has become a waitress, she tells us that MISS PRENTISS always loved to cook strange foods, and the only way she could get the public's opinion, was to open her now famous Mansion House. After a couple of years, Miss Neff saw the huge profits she was making, and quit teaching to join her.

As we sit, talking, we notice a business-like looking woman staring at us. Out of curiosity, we go over to speak to her. It is LUAIN MOSS. When we inquire as to what she is doing, she tells us that she had always loved to criticise, and has taken it up as her occupation. She is now a drama critic for the town's leading newspaper.

Seeing Miss Neff approaching with our food, we get up. Luain tells us that we must go down to the joints on the water front along the Hubbard Creek as they are fascinating.

Finishing lunch, we leave Carol and go on our way.

On our right we see a huge modern laboratory. Inscribed above the door are the words ZIMMERMAN'S EXPERIMENTAL LABORATORY. We go inside and speak to an efficient looking secretary. We find to our great surprise that it is JUNE IONS. She tells us that Mr. Zimmerman is engaged in an important experiment right now, and can't be disturbed. We ask her about the building and she tells us that it was built from the profits on an invention discovered by Mr. Zimmerman and the chemistry class of 1952. The members of that class often come to the laboratory in their spare time to work on inventions. June says that she is working on an eraser to erase originals and carbon copies at the same time. She is confident she could make a fortune selling it to typing classes.

Walking along, we look into the window. From a bookstore a petite blonde, smiles and waves at us. It is PATSY MONG.

Pat shows us copies of her latest book, "The Art of Successful Love Making." She says that she owes her success to the experience she gained during her senior year at Seville.

Glancing around the store, we notice a picture of our old teacher, MR. McCOY, edged in black. When we asked Pat what had happened, she tells us this sad story: Mr. McCoy enjoyed his journalism class of 1952 so much, that he decided to make it a regular course. One time when he was taking his class through a newspaper office he fell into a press and was printed. He is still "red."

Leaving Pat we continue down the street.

Suddenly there was a squeal of brakes and the yipping of a dog. Through the noise of the crowd that gathers, we hear a familiar voice saying, "nice Cindy, nice doggy". There in the center of the crowd is CAROL TAYLOR.

Standing next to us we see KEITH EVANS. Much to our surprise he is tall and slim. When we ask him the cause of the change, he says that he now owns and operates the La Evans reducing Salon and is taking advantage of his property.

When we asked Keith about Carol, he told us that Carol had been successfully set up as a veteranary, when something seemed to snap in her mind. She now goes around the city chasing dogs and calling them Cindy.

Remembering Luains' suggestion, we thank Keith and leave Carol and the dog.

From the first joint we come to, issues forth the sound of a tinkling piano. Going in we see another member of this class WANDA NEWCOMER seated at the piano. Wanda tells us that she had simply liked the idea of becoming a chanteuse. It was so daring.

She said that it was too bad that we hadn't come a day sooner. We could have seen BILL CUPPS. He ran a gambling house up the street, and had gotten in trouble with the law. He had skipped town.

Leaving the joints, we journey to the edge of town to the zoo. We notice a crowd in front of the lions cage. A man is making the lions go through their paces. It is JIM COLLETTE. After his show we go over and talk to him.

Jim says that he had made several safaris into darkest Africa, and that he had supplied the animals here in the zoo. As he leaves us to feed the animals, Jim tells us that he is still on the lookout for some young quail.

Going through the exit, we find ourselves out in the country. On the right was a huge billboard with a smiling face on it. It was MARY GORDON. Mary is a toothpaste tycoon. Her famous grin is spread from coast to coast.

At the first farmhouse we come to, we see a short woman hoeing in the garden. Being very thirsty, we go over to ask for a drink. It was SHIRLEY BAKER. She tells us that she and Ron have settled down on her father's farm and are raising little county champions.

Thanking Shirley for the drink, we go across the road to the Sunny Dell Motel, as it is getting towards evening. There in the office is MAXCINE DETWILER. When we ask her what had happened to MARCINE, she tells us that Marcine said she couldn't stand the thought of people being confused the rest of her life so she went to South Africa and is now making a vast fortune in the diamond mines. As we talk, there begins an awful noise up the road.

"What is that", we inquired.
"We better go see", Maxcine said, "you won't beleive me."

Entering a red barn we see a familiar sight. It was a square dance. Up on the platform calling was BOB MEANS, with WILLIS RIGGENBACH by his side playing a guitar. After the set is over, we go over to talk to them.

Bob says that he took up calling square dances to exercise his vocal chords, since he couldn't talk in class meetings any more.

Willis tells us that he had a farm down the road and that he is starting a jamboree on the local television station. His farm joins that thriving one of GARDNER AND HEWIT. Mr. Gardner couldn't convince Bob on certain points in agriculture and went out to Hewit's to prove them to him. He found he liked the farm very much and just stayed.

Now as we have seen every member of this class and the faculty, we unroll our magic carpet, hop on and fly away. Seville grows smaller and smaller in the distance as we sorrowfully wave goodby.

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

First Grade

On a sunny morning early in September, 1940, the class of 1952 w a s ushered into the first grade by our mothers or older sisters. Some of us entered with smiling faces. Innocent little things we were, little did we know of the long years of SCHOOL ahead of us. A few must have had a premonition of what it would be like for they clung to mothers with tear-streaked faces. Our first year was spent in cutting, pasting, and learning our letters, under the guidance of Mrs. Long.

Second Grade

The next year, with the exception of a few, we moved one room up the corridor. This year we had little tables and chairs, which we delighted in moving about. We kept our crayons and work books on the window sill and there were quite a few arguments as to which crayons belonged to what person. Miss Heiks was our teacher this year and she let us have a lot of parties. This year, we learned to count to a hundred. As soon as we could do it, we were allowed to sit in a chair in front of the room and recite.

Third Grade

In the third grade, school began to seem more like school. At the middle of the year, we began to write instead of print. We had little brown books in which we painstakingly lettered an exact copy of sentences written above. Most of the copies looked nothing like the original. We graduated from the "Judy can run; this is a dog" stage into more interesting stories in reading. Miss Jones was our teacher that year.

Fourth Grade

In the fourth grade, we had a teacher from Kentucky, Miss Fritz. It took us half a year to get used to her southern drawl. This year. we started to study history and geography. We learned that the Pueblo Indians built their houses in piles and about the Plains Indians who wandered about from place to place. Many of us, by this time, probably wished we could be Indians so we wouldn't have to go to school.

Fifth Grade

Most of our fifth year was spent in the corners of the fifth grade room. We had our classes in the room now used for the kindergarten. In the middle of the last half year our teacher, Miss Wright, left and Mrs. Dowd took over for the rest of the year. We had amused ourselves by teasing our teacher, but when Mrs. Dowd took over, we had to settle down, somewhat.

Sixth Grade

In the sixth grade we decided we were grown-up and so we elected class officers. We worked like little beavers. We sold Christmas cards and collected tax stamps. The latter had to be counted and bound into neat little packs of a hundred with stout thread. Many of us spent precious noon hours doing this. We had quite a few parties, and at the end of the year, we had a party at Miss Routh's home. We celebrated our graduation to the upstairs, by reading our will and prophecy. During the party a window managed to get broken and we took advantage of the money in our treasury to pay for it. This year we bought a slide trombone for the school duly inscribed "From the Sixth Grade." We have been pointing with pride to this achievement ever since.

Seventh Grade

Our seventh year! We were quite grown up this year (we thought) and ran around talking about "homerooms", "schedules" and "big study hall." Mr. Heller was our home room teacher. Pat Mong and Carol Black were Junior High Cheerleaders. Our first party upstairs was a hayride and barn party. It rained. On the way home it cleared up and we were able to enjoy the party.

Eighth Grade

We were used to the "upstairs" by now and could show the seventh graders around. Mr. Scott was our homeroom teacher. Pat Mong and Shirley Baker were Junior High Cheerleaders this year, Shirley was chosen all-county cheerleader. Our boys helped to win the Junior High Tournament.

Betty Kilgore was a majorette. Bill Cupps and June Ions went to the Akron Beacon Journal Spelling semi-final. For our class party we had a hayride to Creston Auto Theater. Everyone had fun.

Ninth Grade

High School at last. We were really initiated by the Sophomores. We went about ordering our class sweaters and deciding upon our emblems, motto and flower. We had four cheerleaders from our class; Pat Mong, Carol Black Junior High; Mary Gordon and Shirley Baker Varsity. Mavis Jarvis and Dick Miller represented our class in the May Queen's court.

Tenth Grade

Our big opportunity had come and we initiated the Freshmen. We thought up the worst punishment we could and sent them through dark halls into all sorts of bloody traps laughing fiendishly. Our class was out to make money for our class trip and did a variety of things from selling schedule pencils to picking up potatoes. Pat Mong, Shirley and Mary were Varsity Cheerleaders. Shirley won all-county cheerleading. Jim Collette and Shirley Baker were attendants in the May Queen court. We had Mr. King for our class advisor this year.

Eleventh Grade

Miss Milford guided us carefully through our Junior Year. We were proudly wearing our class rings at the beginning of the year though some didn't manage to keep them long. We made our first venture into the dramatic arts with our play "Boys about Bobbette." It was a success. M a r y Gordon and Shirley Baker both won all-county cheerleading this year. The big event of the year was the Junior-Senior Banquet at Akron Woman's City Club. Every one delighted in parading about the fine halls of the club and dancing in the beautiful ballroom. Marie Tankersly and Dale Hagans represented our class in the May Queen's court, with Marie crowning her.

Twelth Grade

Now we are Seniors. To say we were busy would be an understatement. We rushed about from place to place like chickens with our heads cut off excitedly planning our activities. We planned for our class trip in April. We enjoyed ourselves thoroughly and when it came time to graduate some of us have decided it wasn't so bad after all.

Class Poem

Soon we will be leaving
These dear old halls of knowledge
Some of us to jobs
And others off to college.

Before we leave we think about
The happy times we've had,
The friendships we have made
With every lass and lad.

To our dear teachers we leave,
We hope, this happy thought.
We think that we have learned
About a third of what they taught.

We hate to leave the school
Because when we are gone
The students left behind will have
A hard time carrying on.

And so to all our friends
We bid a fond goodby
And we express our sadness
At leaving dear old Seville High.

FOOTBALL ROUNDUP

On Friday September 7, Seville journeyed to Wooster to open its football season in a sixteen minute preview game with the Wooster Reserves. Seville took the lead when Joe Wanko speared a Wooster aerial and sped the length of the field for the first and only touchdown. Wooster fought back and soon tallied to tie the score. With only four seconds remaining Wooster pounded through for the second and winning touchdown. The score ended 13-6 Wooster.

Seville started their 1952 football season offically with Peninsula . The hard fighting Peninsula griders proved to be too much for the Seville team. The Seville team seemed to tire in the second half and the Peninsula team tallied 27 points. Seville's offense couldn't seem to get going and the final score ended with Seville losing 33-0.

Seville got its first grid win after a days waiting when Brewster failed to show up Friday night. Seville was sparked by their hard running back Lyle Huffman who scored the only two touchdowns; one in the second and one in the fourth period. The final score ended with Seville coming out on top 12-0.

The Seville Barbers won their second straight as they downed Brunswick 26-6. Seville got off to a good start as Dick Detwiler took the openingkick off and returned it 65 yards for the first score of the game. Joe Wanko scored twice for Seville once in the first and once in the second period. Jim Collette made the final touchdown in the third period. Brunswick's touchdown was made by French in the third period.

Seville won its third straight in a thriller with the Lodi Tigers , in a hard fought game that's rough and tumble on both sides offensively and also defensively. The only points were scored in the third period by Jim Collette, Seville's fullback, on a thirty yard end sweep.

Seville won their fourth straight victory as they defeated the Wooster Reserves 20-7. Wooster scored first when Frands returned a sixty yard punt for a touchdown, a pass from Pierce to Cook was good for the extra point. Seville scored on a 10 yard pass from Huffman to Detwiler, Huffman ran the extra point. Wanko broke the tie with a 40 yard touchdown and Huffman added the clincher when he bucked over the one yard line in the fourth quarter.

Granger-Sharon smashed a four game Seville winning streak with a score of 31-0.

In the last game of year Brunswick defeated Seville 7-6 on a muddy Brunswick field.

Ron Saal took top scoring honors for Seville with 13 points, with Dale Hagans and Leonard Huffman close behind with 11 each.

We met Amherst at Oberlin. Amherst took off in leaps and bounds to lead at the end of the first quarter 25-18. At the end of the second quarter the lead had been increased to 46-18. By the end of the game they led 65 to 31.

We would like to congratulate Ronnie Saal for placing on the all-county second team. Ronnie got enough votes from the coachs to place on both the guard and forward positions. This has never been done before in Medina County

Cheerleaders

One of the things of which Seville can be proud is its cheerleading team.

The Varsity, team composed of Shirley Baker, Jo Collette, Phyllis and Mary Gordon, climaxed a season of peppy cheering by winning, for the second time in a row, the Medina County Gazette cheerleading trophy. The girls are noted for their skill in cheer-leading and also for their ability to hold the attention of a crowd which makes for better cheers.

Supplementing the talent of the varsity girls and cheering the reserves to victory time after time, the reserve squad also displayed talent. This personable quartet was made up of Carol Black, Jeanne Hagans, Joanne Shook, and Evelyn Truex. These girls led the crowd at every game and gained valuable experience which will be useful to those of them who will be the varsity team of the future.

Three of the cheerleaders this year are Seniors, one is a Junior, one is a Sophomore, and three are Freshmen.

Mary and Shirley who are the senior varsity members have each had four years of varsity cheering. Shirley had one year of Junior High experience also. Shirley was on the all-county team in her Sophomore and Junior year. Mary made all-county during her Junior and Senior years. Shirley was also on all-county in Junior High. Carol, who is the senior member of the Reserve team, has been a Junior High Cheerleader two years and on the reserve team two years. Patsy Mong, another senior, was a Junior High cheerleader for three years and a varsity cheerleader during her Sophomore year. She was a substitute on the varsity team this year.

Phyllis, the only Junior has cheered for five years, two on the Junior High team and three as a varsity member. She has been on three championship teams.

Jo, who is a Sophomore, has had two years as a Junior High and two as a Varsity cheerleader. She was on the all-county team when she was a seventh grader. She was on the all-county second team this year.

The three Freshmen are the new members of the reserve squad, Jeanne, Joanne, and Evelyn. Evelyn has had one year previous service as a Junior High Cheerleader and Joanne has had two. This was Jeannes first year of cheering.

The cheerleading squads are an important part of the school activities. They provide an opportunity for girls to be active in sports and do a great deal to boost school spirit.

Majorettes

Three majorettes have put out their best efforts to lead the band through its paces this year. They have been assisted by the very skillfull Junior majorettes who have been twirling ever since their fourth year in school.

The highschool trio is composed of Garnet Jarvis, Carol Gerstenschlager and Joan J. Joan is the head majorette.

The able Junior majorettes are Mary Quinlan, Carol Baker, and Patsy Welday. Although only in the seventh grade, these girls perform like seasoned veterans.

Next year these girls will be joined by Frances Jarvis and Linda Christian who were chosen early this year.

The team, composed of girls from the Sophomore, Junior, and Senior Classes, challanges other schools to games which are held after school. At the time of this writing, the girls have had an undefeated season having played Creston and Medina. They hope to continue this record in future games. Miss Prentiss is the team's coach and Miss Cooper has served as referee in in the two games this year.
